FROM THE PASTOR

I spoke at a Men’s Conference not too long ago, and I had some awesome notes from a black preacher that I wanted to share. We had 4 black Pastors and their men with us, so I politely asked if they wouldn’t mind if I made an attempt to preach a little like a black Pastor.

I told them that during the Millennial Reign of Christ, I’m hoping to be graced with the ability to preach like only a black preacher can preach, so when I asked permission , they very kindly accepted.

As I began, even the white guys were getting into it, and one of the music Pastors who had been raised in the black culture ran up and started supporting me from the piano. If we would have had an organ, we might still be there, it was glorious!

During the altar time, one of my black Pastor brothers approached me and gave me a wonderful compliment. He said, “Pastor Randy, you one of us! You just pigmentationally challenged.”

As I finish today’s sermon, with permission from my wonderful African American brothers and sisters in Christ, I will attempt to make my black Pastor friends proud of me! Make it plain...

C’mon Somebody,

Pastor Randy
